

Mother's Day Weekend! Mama, nana and I saw a dance performance on Friday night - I didn't make a peep or fidget, I only had eyes for the stage. It was about water and the first half hour there was No Music – imagine!

On Saturday, we went to Kingsburg (all traveling in one vehicle as papa drove nana in to Dartmouth the day before) via Peggy's Cove where we picnicked on the big rocks hunkered down to avoid the biting wind-off-the-ocean. Some people were wearing shorts and t-shirts - they must of been frrrrreeezing!

Papa prepared us a wonderful bbq chicken dinner. On Sunday morning, he and I made our favourite blueberry pancakes. Yummy as ever! After breakfast we went for a Very Long hike up the hill, through the woods, down the road, to the pond And beach! We were gone over 2 hours - such an adventure – I Love Nature Walks! Papa's shoe laces kept untying. He said he'd have to ask KelleyAnne how to tie them. But I'd never seen mama tie laces, so I'm not sure she can!

Quotes, etc:

Mama and I go to get our tires changed. I looked at the sign: “I thought this was Canadian tire, not OK tire”

I actually read the word zoo.

I have a new bestie, my TaeKwondo friend Nina!

In the morning I was going to say something but first, I asked, “Are you in a hurry mama?”

The coop's getting “kinda boring.” But we really can't move – nana wouldn't know where to find us!

Mother's Day Weekend :-)

Mama says I'm a good nurse!
I'm prepping apples for our
Peggy's Cove picnic!
Walking Peggy's Rocks . . . Brrrrrrr!