

Off to Kingsburg!

After reading story about Oak Island Treasure, "my best treasure is Kingsburg!"

"He's part of our family, we have to take Sully!"

"I had no idea it would be this amazing!"

(re Pink Vanilla Bath Bomb)

We met nana and papa in Bridgewater Friday night. Papa took Sully home while we went to see an African concert at the Bridgewater United Church – LOTS of great music! Papa was going to come, but we left Dartmouth a little late because mama got held up at work – I had to calm Sully down and put him in his carrier :-)

When we got home, papa, nana and I watched Shrek 3. On Saturday morning we all went to the Firemen's Breakfast at the Riverport Fire Department – yum yum! A nasty weather report for Sunday morning meant we'd have to leave after supper – phooey. Papa showed us the amazing driftwood table he made for Trudi – Wow! And we went for a short walk. I had a bath with nana's new pink vanilla bath bomb! Mama washed my hair using nana's shampoo and braided my hair using her shea and cocoa butter balm . . . we got back to Dartmouth by 8pm.
